Article 21
Protection of life and personal liberty

No person shall be deprived of his life or personal liberty except according to procedure established by law.